Editor's Message

The summer heat and thunderstorms have arrived!

The pitter patter of little paws and the washing of those little kitten mousse covered faces has begun – some of the baby photos on FaceBook are incredibly beautiful, should be an interesting Kitten Section at COTY 2023.

The Governing Council AGM was held on the 22nd October – the feedback minutes and Constitution/Rule changes appear further on in this Newsletter.

This eNews also show cases WPCC Cat Show and the popular Cape Top Cat event.

Summer is also a time for festivities and family gatherings in our end of the world.

Even though our petrol/diesel prices have gone through the roof, the repo rate keeps on increasing, our electricity supply is erratic, the cost of living is crazy and our roads are full of huge potholes- we are still in a better situation than many other countries because we are blessed with a proudly South African attitude and sense of humour. It takes a nation to make a nation and it takes many different kinds of cat people to make a Cat Fancy.

Have a great festive season!

SACC COMMUNICATION

Central & Registration Office: Johan has set up a Google Members Group and he has sent out “invites”- the onus is on you to follow the invite instructions.

If you are a member of a SACC Cat Club and have not received the invite, please contact sacatreg@iafrica.com and request same from Johan. The Group forum will be used to send out SACC only information and is not an interactive group.

Email: sacatreg@iafrica.com

Phone: 011 616 7017

Cell: 082 549 2931

Postal: P.O. Box 287, Oudtshoorn, Western Cape, 6620.

Google Business Profile: There was an excellent response to the post COTY article- according to the stats it had over 1000 views between September and November.

Face book: This continues to attract new members which are all previewed before acceptance. There are still a few members of the Group who try to advertise/promote their wares or their cats/kittens. This is not an advertising site- if you want to advertise, it is so easy to create your own page.

eNews: This will continue to be published 4 times a year and will contain show photos and articles which, hopefully, are of interest to some.

Breed Standards: There were a few changes to the General SOP which will be uploaded to the website and the Facebook Group as soon as they are received from the Breed Council Secretary.

Website: No major changes have taken place. All the SOPs have been converted to pdf files – this should not create issues but if you do have problems opening a pdf, please contact websacc1@gmail.com.

COTY and where it is held

The area where Cat of the Year is held annually is dependent on which Cat Club has requested to hold it.

How does it work?

Firstly, let me explain how Governing Council works: there are 7 Cat Clubs- Gauteng has 3 Clubs and the other Provinces each have 1 Club. A Delegate from each club together with the 4 Management people, the Registrar, the Breed Council Secretary and the Judges’ Council representative make up the Governing Council, however only the Club Delegates have the right to vote on proposals and matters at the AGM.

COTY is a SACC event which is hosted by one of the 7 Cat Clubs. Governing Council does not choose the host, a Cat Club requests to host the event after taking many things into consideration- such as financial state of the club, committed workforce or not, Main Sponsor approval (the area has to be logistically viable for the sponsor), ample accommodation and ease of access for people travelling.

Some feel it is unfair that it is in Gauteng again next year- but others would have said it was unfair if it had been held in KZN or Cape Town or Port Elizabeth or Kimberley.

In a perfect world each 7-year cycle (7 clubs) would mean that Gauteng hosted the event 3 times and Kimberley, Cape Town, KZN and Port Elizabeth would each host it once within the time period. But the world is not perfect and it takes many hands to host COTY- hands which are not always available due to other commitments.

The bottom line is COTY takes place in the Province of whichever Club is willing to host the event.

So, if you want COTY in your particular Province - ask your Club to host it and then actually help in some way because COTY does not just happen overnight – it takes months of planning, visiting venues, choosing décor and design work, sound, food, finding pet friendly accommodation, fetching and carrying, setting up, ensuring Trophies are returned- the list is never ending and it is totally unrealistic to expect a few Committee Members to do everything.

Of course, we all know that COTY is an expensive event for the exhibitor but it only happens once a year so budgeting is definitely on the cards if you have a really good cat and you want to attend.

There is another area of confusion for some. The National Qualifier (NQ) and National Winner (NW) suffixes which you can add to your adult or neuter cat's pedigree.

If your cat qualifies for COTY but does not attend, you may not use the NQ suffix on his/her pedigree.

If your cat qualifies for the Kitten of the Year section you may not use the NQ/NW suffix.

If your cat qualifies for the Domestic Pet of the Year section you may not use the NQ/NW suffix.

Neuter of the Year may use the both the NW and the NQ suffixes.

Entire of the Year may use both the NW and the NQ suffixes.

The following are the only suffixes that can appear on a cat's pedigree: -

DM- Distinguished Merit (awarded to a Sire or Dam based on the show success of his/her progeny).

NQ- National Qualifier (awarded to Neuter and Entire cats that qualify for COTY.)

NW- National Winner (awarded to Neuter and Entire COTY Winner).

RQ and RW- Regional Qualifier/Regional Winner (awarded in those regions which hold a physical Top Cat event).

Therefore, the suffix WW or WQ (WODAC Winner/Qualifier) may not appear on your pedigrees. WODAC was an annual event but was not run by SACC, it was only the cat hall which was the responsibility of our fancy plus WODAC no longer exists as a concept. The annual event is now a PET EXPO with multiple cat organisations represented.

The SACC Registrar's Report was presented by Jan van Rooyen. There was a huge increase in Imported Cat registration as well as an increase in the transference of cats from other registering bodies from the previous year. The Registry hard drive crashed but all data has been recovered or re uploaded to the system so all is back in full working order. 1081 pedigree cats and 127 domestic cats were shown during the 2021/2022 show season.

- DNA test results of every kitten in the litter and all possible studs are submitted to the SA Cat registrar. Note: off springs' colours and patterns will not be considered as proof of sire in this instance.

- The test must be based on a blood sample (rather than a buccal swab), which blood sample must be taken and submitted by a vet.
- The test results must indicate which stud is the sire of which kitten.
- Two separate SACR F3 (Application for the registration of one litter) documents must be completed, one document for each stud's offspring.

AILUROPHOBIA-what is it?

Medically reviewed by Joslyn Jelinek, LCSW — By Traci Pedersen on July 11, 2022

Ailurophobia, an extreme and irrational fear of cats, is a type of animal phobia that is not as well-known as other animal phobias, such as a fear of snakes or spiders, and is often not considered to be a serious phobia.

It is also known as gatophobia, elurophobia, felinophobia and cat phobia.

A variety of factors may drive cat phobia. Some people fear being bitten, scratched, or attacked by a cat. For others, it's a belief that cats are evil. This is particularly true for black cats — who have their own phobia called mavrogatophobia.

For other people, the distress is driven by disgust rather than pure dread, similar to a person's reaction toward cockroaches or rats.

While ailurophobia isn't recognized as a distinct disorder in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, 5th edition, text revision \(DSM-5-TR\), its symptoms fall under the diagnostic criteria for specific phobia: Animal type.

What are the symptoms of ailurophobia?

Ailurophobia symptoms may be emotional, psychological, or physical. These symptoms might be similar to what's experienced in an anxiety disorder or a panic attack.

Emotional or psychological symptoms of ailurophobia may include:

- intense anxiety or fear
- racing thoughts
- fear of losing control
- dread
- disgust
- insomnia
- avoidance of anyplace with cats (including the homes of friends or family members with cats)

Physical symptoms of ailurophobia may include the following:

- rapid breathing or breathlessness
- trembling
- dizziness
- confusion
- brain fog
- racing heart

- sweating
- chest pain
- nausea
- headache

What causes ailurophobia?

The exact cause of ailurophobia is unclear. The source may differ for each person and stem from various factors.

Contributing factors to ailurophobia may include:

- Genetics. Phobias and other anxiety disorders often run in families. Studies on twins have found phobias to be inherited.
- Previous bad experience with cats. A person who was attacked by a cat in childhood may develop ailurophobia.
- Dysfunctional brain chemistry or circuitry. suggests that anxiety disorders, such as PTSD and specific phobias, may stem from a dysfunction in brain circuitry.
- Having another anxiety disorder or other phobias. Individuals with one phobia are more likely to have another phobia.
- Having a close family member with ailurophobia. If your mom or dad has an intense fear of cats, you may have learned this fear by watching them.

How is ailurophobia diagnosed?

According to the DSM-5-TR, a diagnosis of specific phobia of any type is given if your symptoms meet the following criteria:

- Significant fear or anxiety toward a specific object (in ailurophobia, it's cats).
- The trigger (cats) almost always leads to sudden, intense fear or anxiety.
- The fear is far more severe than the actual risk of the specific object or situation.
- Triggers (friends' homes with cats or pet shops) are actively avoided or endured with severe anxiety.
- The phobia (fear of cats) is persistent and lasts 6 months or more.
- The phobia (fear of cats) results in clinically significant distress or impaired functioning. For example, you can no longer go home because your roommate got a new cat.
- The phobia (fear of cats) is not better explained by the symptoms of another mental disorder, such as post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) or obsessive-compulsive disorder (OCD).

How is ailurophobia treated?

Treatment for specific phobias may include one or more of the following techniques:

- Flooding. This technique gives you the maximum level of exposure to your trigger without any attempt to lessen the anxiety. Flooding is considered the most effective intervention for many phobias, and research shows it has a response rate of 80%-90%.
- Desensitization techniques. This treatment exposes you to a list of your triggers, starting with the least to the most anxiety-provoking. You can also learn various techniques to deal with anxiety, such as relaxation and breathing techniques.
- Eye movement desensitization and reprocessing (EMDR). EMDR treats the events in which you've encountered cats as unprocessed traumas. You would then work through these memories to overcome your fear of cats.
- Virtual reality (VR) therapy. You could overcome your fear by interacting with cats on a VR screen.
- Medication.

Coping strategies

There are several things you can do to cope with ailurophobia.

Visualization techniques

Visualization techniques allow you to use your imagination to confront your fears. If you have ailurophobia, you can visualize certain situations involving cats and see yourself successfully handling them.

For example, you might imagine yourself walking into a pet shop.

As you "walk in" the pet shop's front door, you might see yourself breathing deeply and imagining how it would feel to not have any fear. In your mind's eye, you could walk toward the cats. Perhaps you imagine yourself just looking at them or petting them without any anxiety.

Meditation

Anxiety-reducing practices, such as meditation, can help you feel less distressed and fearful in the long term.

When you encounter a phobia trigger, it causes your body to release high levels of the stress hormone cortisol, leading to the "fight-or-flight" state.

In contrast, meditation trains your brain and body to reach a highly relaxed state called the "relaxation response" — essentially the opposite of the fight-or-flight state.

Remaining calm when you encounter a trigger may help you overcome ailurophobia.

When to seek help

Consider seeking professional treatment if ailurophobia interferes with daily functioning. For instance, if you can't visit your best friend's home because he has a cat, seeking treatment for your phobia could improve your quality of life.

In contrast, constantly avoiding cats can make your fear worse. If you go out of your way to avoid cats and accidentally encounter one in the street, it could lead to a panic attack.
